

TOWN HALL MEETING ON DROUGHT

National Weather Center, Norman
120 David L. Boren Blvd. (Jenkins & Highway 9)
June 3, 2010 6:00 p.m.

The Oklahoma Climatological Survey in association with the National Drought Mitigation Center is launching a new “drought ready communities” program. Norman is among the first communities in the nation that has been asked to participate in the program.

The town hall meeting will begin a dialogue on these topics, present supporting materials that have been developed, and provide an opportunity for discussion about how drought may affect Norman.

The meeting is open to the public. Anyone at-risk for water shortages, including residents, businesses, and city agencies, should become involved so that your needs and perspectives are represented. Those who have attended the recent Sustainable Water Resource Forum will find this a nice companion to the process.

Please RSVP to the Oklahoma Climatological Survey
p: 325-2541
e: drought@mesonet.org